“The Prophecy”

In the days of the Shift, when the old world was crumbling and the new one was being born, the Queen spoke out to warn of the challenges that lay ahead. “The road to the New Earth will not be easy,” she said. “You will face many trials and tribulations, as the forces of darkness fight to maintain their grip on power. But you must not falter, for the destiny of the planet and all its beings is at stake.”

She foretold of the great storms that would rage across the world, both literal and metaphorical. She spoke of the floods and fires, the earthquakes and hurricanes, the wars and conflicts that would test the resolve of humanity.

And she warned of the false prophets that would rise up, promising a return to the old ways, who would seek to lead humanity astray.

“But you must not listen to them,” the Queen said. “You must trust in your own power as co-creators, and in the power of the planet's energy. You must rise up and work together to bring forth the New Earth, to nurture its growth and guide its evolution. The fate of the world is in your hands.”
